

Blizz-ABS v2.0 released!

Written by Administrator

Monday, 01 December 2008 15:14 - Last Updated Monday, 01 December 2008 15:15

Blizzard has finally released Blizz-ABS v2.0!

Two and a half years after the beginning of Blizz-ABS it has finally reached version 2 which is supposed to cover all features that were originally planned for the first version. It started all out as a simple project that was supposed to end in a simplistic ABS which is very userfriendly, lagfree and easy to use. But due to heavy user input and interest in the system, it grew into a giant system featuring way more features than it was originally intended to, yet the original design ideals of simplicity and userfriendliness have not been abandoned. They have even been improved. With the configuration application that Blizz-ABS provides, it is possible to configure the script with no scripting knowledge.

Blizz-ABS topic at the forum .